The background colors are all right, but the tepee color is too yellow and the decorations harsh. Costume colors of the Indians are pretty good, but the whites and grays are muddy, as indeed the whole card seems to be.

SEE SKETCH. THERE IS A MATTER OF PROPORTION ABOUT THE POOL ITSELF THAT SEEMS TO GIVE IT AN "OFF CENTER" PROPORTION. IN OTHER WORDS, YOU HAVE MORE WATER SHOWING TO THE LEFT SIDE OF THE TOWER THAN ON THE RIGHT AND THE BACK EDGE OF THE POOL (ON THE LEFT) SEEMS TO ANGLE FORWARD TOO MUCH. I noticed this at the time I called attention to the tower not being in the center position and just assumed that the artist would change the lines of the pool accordingly. While it may not conform exactly with the photograph I believe it will improve the card considerably to change this. It looks like the simplest way to do it would be to change the angle of the left side of the pool — which as it appears — spreads out at a much wider angle than the right side. In fact there actually is over 1/4 in. difference in the distance from center — taking the fountain as center — to the left corner of the pool. So to give it better proportion, as I see it, would be to bring color description the angle of the left side in and lengthen it almost as much, if not the same, as it is on the right.
